

REWIRED: POWERED BY XERO

Rewired is a coworking space that brings together New Zealand's best and brightest tech businesses. With 75 members, they are using the SwipedOn business plan. We caught up with Louis, the community manager at Rewired, to find out more about their Visitor Management needs and how SwipedOn has helped on their journey.

Rewired is a coworking and event space designed to bring together New Zealand's best and brightest tech businesses and individuals to collaborate, develop, and scale together. Nestled within Xero's Auckland office in New Zealand's North Island, it offers a home for small businesses with global ambition. Being a new facility, Rewired was looking for a visitor management solution (VMS) from day one. As a small to medium size business (SMB) they were searching for a solution that would be relevant to their company size and come at a reasonable price.

The challenge of cost

The primary challenge for Rewired was around cost, with an emphasis on low cost, yet still having a feature-set that was suitable to their needs such as visitor notifications and employee sign-in / sign-out. They had three key priorities when searching for a visitor management system, which revolved around visitor notifications, ease of setup and aesthetics. And SwipedOn delivered.

According to Louis, Rewired discovered that "the cost versus value that SwipedOn offers suited us the most when we compared it against other similar providers." Further commenting that they love supporting Kiwi companies being a NZ business themselves.
